Journey to Japan

by T. Geo. Wood.

RAMBLINGS IN JAPAN

We have just read the April 1st issue of the Raymond Recorder with its story of Rotary in Tokyo, etc. the impression grows that we are getting too long winded, and that all you good folks there must be getting fed up on Japanese stories, but this assignment is like holding the elephants tale in the circus. It is one most interesting tale (pun) and hard to let go.

For today we give some highlights on foods of Japan.

This metropolis naturally caters to all food tastes and you can eat out for weeks if the yen hold out, going to dining spots.

American, Chinese, French, German, Indian, Mongolian, Russian, Italian, and, of course, Japanese.

Let us then savor Japanese food. Some, of course, you can secure in Raymond. You would be welcome to see the stock carried for the Japanese people at the church, although we do not know if the stock is for sale.

Sukiyaki to many folks displaces rice as the Japanese national dish, but not so to them.

You sit around a bubbling dish of fine sliced beef cooking in a heavy iron pan over a charcoal brazier. The kimono-clad waitress cooks the meat nearly through, then adds the vegetables in small quantities — say bamboo shoots, leeks, peppers, snow peas, asparagus, all giving off delightful odors, and served together, piping hot.

We enjoyed one evening at Chinz-ancho. This is a restaurant set in the most beautiful garden. Food was like Japanese, but cooked Mongolian over red hot slats; first beef, leeks, onions, sweet potatoes then chicken and pork with peppers, each piece served individually around the concrete table, ending with rice and raw fruit. There were 17 acres of Japanese garden to love and admire.

Then one evening at Onoya Hotel in Atumi, we had a Japanese Tempura meal. This is food which has been dipped in a batter and fried in a deep fat. When the four elements, absolutely fresh ingredients, a light batter, pleasant smelling, fresh cooking oil and the sauce, made of grated white daikon (radish) soy sauce and broth from boiling dried fish are combined, there is a dish for all epicures.

Fish is the main food, including shrimp, sea eels, squid, whitebait and migochi. Then the vegetables include ginkgo nuts, peppers, eggplant, clover, asparagus and celery. The batter

Dear Max:

Would like to subscribe to the Recorder again. We find that we know nothing of what is happening any more in the Sugar City and inasmuch as we feel that we still have many friends there, would like to keep sort of track of them.

I saw two of the Comet-Winnipeg games and our boys did very well. Winnipeg bench strength told the tale in the end of all three games and our boys gave a very good account of themselves. Perhaps you would like to put a few words in your paper concerning a conversation I had with the Winnipeg coach since the series was played. Coach Mauthe told me that he had never played against a more gentlemanly bunch of ball players in all his life. That is quite a credit to our boys I'm sure. Another remark that might be worth printing if it is not too late now, was one that I heard before the third game: One of the Winnipeg players was talking to two or three of our boys and I heard him say this: "Is that all you guys do out there is play basketball?" That was meant in all respect for our boys' ability, I'm sure. He thought they were good enough that they must eat, talk and sleep in those little towns out there. That's how those Mormon towns come up with winners — by clean living and attention to the game.

Just thought you might want to put those two remarks in the paper — from a "NEUTRAL" fan. If it is not too late, I'm sure the people would be interested in it.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Navratil was the scene of a family gathering Wednesday evening when the Alma Hancocks, Arnold Garretts, Earl Hancocks, George McGillvarays, Lorn Hancocks and Floyd Harrison, all of Raymond, Mr. Edward Hancock of Cardston, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Conrad of Taber, met for a Hancock reunion.

Mrs. Alice Christensen has returned home after a two weeks visit with her daughter and son in law, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin Nalder, of Great Falls.

Dr. Gordon Anderson attended a Provincial Dental Association meeting in Calgary recently.

Mr. and Mrs. L.D. King are thrilled to learn of the birth of their first great grandchild, a boy, who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Hill last week. Mrs. Hill is living in Provo while her husband is in the service in Houston, Texas, studying medical technology. Mrs. Hill is the daughter of Stella (King) Fryett of Bremerton, Washington.

ALTA SEMINARY CONVENTION

Three Stakes and Western Canada Mission — Senior Seminary students from the Taylor Stake, Alberta Stake and cardinals from Edmonton and Calgary, gathered in the Cardston Social Center, Easter Monday, April 11th, for a convention.

At 2:00 p.m. Jim Hudson, M.C., saw that the 350 students became acquainted in a series of association games.

The highlight of the day was next. In the Chapel, at 3:00, an inspirational meeting was held. N. E. Tanner, President of the Calgary Stake, was the guest speaker, and both he and Mr. J. Lowe of Edmonton, thrilled the students with their speeches.

Musical numbers were furnished by the Glenwood choir. Then a Testimony meeting was held in which many of the young people expressed their appreciation of the Church. The thrilling meeting came to a close with everyone in the best of spirits.

The group of students enjoyed a movie at the Roxie from 5 to 6 p.m. Another important part of the days program took place next — the banquet. From 7 to 8 the Social Center was the scene of many young people enjoying immensely a sumptuous feast.

A variety program was held after the banquet with Ted Jones and Jim Vance as masters of ceremonies. The remainder of the evening till 1:00 was spent in dancing, giving all the highschool students a chance to get better acquainted.

The Seminary convention was both inspiring and fun, leaving enthused Seminary students looking forward to another such party in Raymond next year.

Touring The Town With Amy

— Amy Campbell

Put on your sunniest smile (and your rubbers) to see what April has to offer in the line of bargains.

The display of new ornaments in the Mercantile is interesting and extensive. An example of the exquisite designing are the small L'amour China swan bowls. The pink swans are hand painted with gold speckled wings and surrounding flowers.

The Keramik china vases and pitchers, with chocolate brown blending into the pale yellow, give a quaint attractive effect. Any type of ornament you are looking for can also be found in the Merc.

Broadway Store offers permanent beauty and protection for your home with sun-proof exterior house colors. Canada Paint gives you "quality in every drop."

Have a key made at Stones while you wait. Keys can be duplicated for autos, offices, homes, padlocks and apartments, guaranteed to fit. An extra key today saves worry tomorrow.

Housewives! Save on your soap. The Spoon-a-matic soap saver in the Merc pours a heaping tablespoon with each tilt, just what you want for dishes. Use this red plastic device again and again — there'll be no spill, no waste and no guessing. It costs only 35¢.

You'll like that fresh mint flavored seal on all Stuart Hall stationery. The pink, blue or white shades, the distinctive design and the highest quality paper of this stationery will please you indeed! Now see the display rack in the Pharmacy.

And for baby, the Pharmacy has all types of baby rattles and play things, new and different ones that you and your baby will like.

This thermos is the only thermos with all three special features. (1) new insulated polly red top stopper with pouring lip. (2) new bright plastic collar. (3) new tip guard reduces "filler" breakage 99%. At no extra cost you can have this attractive thermos. The Merc is selling it for only $1.98.

More new blouses! The Broadway has several new kinds of blouses including the ever popular Riviera blouses and the girl's Boy Shirts. A smart cotton broadcloth blouse in soft yellow or blue will catch your eye. The white contrasting collar and double cuffs, (one white, one black) should coat the food like a priest's robe — not clinging or close, but easily slipped off. Americans prefer shrimp only.

We have led you by degrees to a real nine-course Japanese dinner, which goes so far away from Canadian cooking that it was a real adventure.

Eight of us went Japanese one night at an exclusive restaurant near Ueno Park. We were introduced by Mrs. Takaleo, one of the court ladies, and when properly seated on zabutons (cushions) on the floor, we faced a Japanese table about 10 inches high.

Each waitress who came in the private room most gracefully bowed at each entrance and to every guest, as served. Chopsticks were the tools, and all dishes were served in tiny bowls. There was a beautiful Tokonoma in the room.

First we were given hot damp towels for hands and faces — then came the food.

— Japanese Tea. Bamboo shoots in Curd Sauce — small raw lobsters, served in the shell with feelers and eyes complete. This was beyond Mrs. Wood and I had to finish off about three of them. On the plate were raw Quail eggs, opened, and I had to do three of these too. Curplings of shaved raw fish and shredded daikon — small piece of hot pork, egg custard, served in the shell and slightly sweet — 1 stalk asparagus, cooked and 1 pod broad beans, very tiny — a fish soup with Whitebait, Kimsel and a jelly like substance floating with tiny plants on top (pond plants). — Tempura Course, Prawn and Whitesole — with rice and Shoyu — fresh Japanese strawberries, over 3 inches long. The top ones are shaped like sharp cones, to a point, served with fruit sugar — green or black tea.

This took about two hours and the ladies did not fare so well, but as a hardened fish-eater, I did very well indeed, about three times my average.

After all this talk of food, cooking and dining out, I would like you to know that home food is best after all and we are having a real battle on the weight and diet questions. We are to try Russian cooking next.

We are keeping up on home news about three weeks behind, and just now are exulting in the achievements of the Raymond Comets. Congratulations to the team, its coaches and managers.

By now, of course, beets and grain have been planted and the good earth, with its good farmers, will produce again that true wealth which comes from all honest endeavour.

We attended the Tokyo District Green and Gold Ball, last Saturday night, held with the usual éclat — for about 200 — at Grant Heights Auditorium. The love for Church and its activities is deep and strong in this far country.

(We would like to draw Mr. Woods attention to the fact that today, April 26th, our early morning rain turned to snow again, and that this month has been far too wet for much planting. Eat your lobster eyes and raw birds eggs, Mr. Wood, the weather is better there than here. Ed.)

An interesting primary conference report was given by Margaret Bridge and Loya Heggie after the lesson capably given by Irene Jensen at the Fourth Ward Preparation meeting held Tuesday evening. Hostesses were Margaret Bridge and Lilla McGivray.

Mrs. Roy Dahl entertained the United Church W.A. recently at a party which also honored Mrs. Flo McKean. Whist was enjoyed with prizes going to Eleanor Dainard and Margaret Jessop. Mrs. McKean was presented with a gift by the group.
The next meeting of the W.A. will be on May 5th, at the home of Mrs.
Karl Wilde.

'Lest We Forget'
Program Success

The Stake Recreation Hall was the scene of a gay variety review recently when the Cemetery Board presented its annual 'Lest We Forget' program.

Mrs. M. R. Woolf introduced the Master of Ceremonies for the evening, Mr. Ron Watmough, Record Librarian for Radio Station CJOC, who took charge and in turn, introduced the following talented artists: Lucille Berry, Cardston, Lindy Smith, Lethbridge, Temple Sinclair, Lethbridge, Alice Sinclair, Lethbridge, William and Annabella Pruegger, Lethbridge, Dora Woolf, Cardston and Jake, the Hutterite, from the Arlege Hill Colony. Accompanying the vocal performers were Thelma Smith of Cardston and Jenine Jensen of Raymond.

Alma Mendenhall was in charge of the Bake Table which is run in conjunction with the program.

The artists were served lunch in the lounge after their successful display of talent.

The attendance at the program was somewhat smaller than that of the same type of show last year. It is supposed the Cemetery upkeep program will not be as extensive this year as last.

Changed To July 1 and 2

ciation was held at the Recorder Office Wednesday at which time the 1st to July 1st and 2nd. An afternoon show, starting at 1:30 will be held on both days, with Saturday, July 2nd to be made Citizen's Day.

Ray Dewey was appointed to look into the possibility of having Brahma bulls at the show this year. The feature is now possible because of the rebuilding of the corrals and chutes.

Plans are being made to have a dance each night.

to date amount to $54.55. Following gary, two members, Mmes. Haugen
